BRAND OVERVIEW

WWIMF is a conceptual global music festival where music, visual art, and emerging technology converge through active participation.

The brand should feel like a live signal: energetic, immersive, experimental, and always shaped by the audience. Every expression should make participation visible.

THE FESTIVAL LISTENS BACK.

WWIMF turns spectators into contributors. The identity translates sound, gesture, and participation into one visible system.

FOUR BEHAVIORS

01

IMMERSIVE

Create a world, not a backdrop.

02

PARTICIPATORY

Invite the audience to affect the experience.

03

EXPERIMENTAL

Pair emerging tools with clear design intent.

04

HUMAN

Technology should amplify connection, not replace it.

DESIGN THE RESPONSE.

1

MAKE INPUT VISIBLE

Show how movement, touch, or presence changes the environment.

2

REWARD CURIOSITY

Build moments that reveal more when people explore.

3

KEEP IT LEGIBLE

The audience should understand what to do without instructions.

4

DESIGN FOR SCALE

Every system must work from a wristband to a stage wall.

LOGO

THE MASTER MARK

Use the primary wordmark when the full festival name or context is present. It is the preferred mark for covers, title cards, headers, and major environmental moments.

PREFERRED VERSION / WHITE ON INK

PROTECT THE SIGNAL.

Maintain clear space equal to the width of one vertical bar (X) on every side of the wordmark.

PRINT / 1.25 IN MINIMUM

DIGITAL / 120 PX MINIMUM

HIGH CONTRAST FIRST.

Use only approved high-contrast pairings. On complex imagery, place the mark over a controlled solid field.

KEEP THE MARK INTACT.

INTERACTION, MADE VISIBLE.

The hand represents the audience as an active participant. Use it as an icon, responsive trigger, navigation device, or large environmental gesture.

THE BARS CAN MOVE.

The bar rhythm may change to express sound or input. The palm, baseline, proportions, and overall silhouette must remain consistent.

ENERGY IN TRANSITION.

Use gradients as atmospheric fields, not decoration. Keep transitions broad, soft, and high-energy. Avoid muddy blends or more than four dominant color zones in a single application.

THE VISUALIZER

Bars may change height and rhythm to respond to sound, data, or gesture. Keep edges square, spacing consistent, and alignment anchored to a shared baseline.

SIX COLUMNS. ONE RHYTHM.

Body copy should span 2-3 columns. Images may occupy the full grid or align in connected modules. Keep the outer margin visible unless an image is intentionally full bleed.

IMMERSIVE / HUMAN / REACTIVE

DO

- SHOW SCALE
- INCLUDE HUMAN PRESENCE
- PRIORITIZE REACTIVE LIGHT
- USE HIGH-CONTRAST COLOR

AVOID

- GENERIC CROWD STOCK
- FLAT CORPORATE LIGHTING
- PASSIVE STAGE PHOTOS
- MUDDY OR DESATURATED COLOR

WEAR THE SIGNAL.

MAKE THE MARK PHYSICAL.

At environmental scale, the hand becomes wayfinding, interface, stage architecture, and proof that participation is active.

BARS RESPOND. THE HAND HOLDS.

Motion should feel responsive, not ornamental. Animate bar height, rhythm, scale, and color while the baseline and palm remain stable.

ENERGY NEEDS CLARITY.

CONTRAST

Use white or ink text on solid fields. Avoid body copy directly over gradients.

MOTION

Respect reduced-motion settings. Never rely on animation alone to communicate state.

COLOR

Pair color with labels, shape, or position. Do not use hue as the only signal.

TYPE

Keep body copy at a readable size and maintain generous line spacing.

MAKE PARTICIPATION VISIBLE.
